As the Editor Sees It

This has been an exciting and busy year for all of us . . . not only for the Lion's Din staff but for each of you as well. While we met editorial deadlines, you met your own particular deadline . . . an English theme . . . a math test . . . a club project.

Because we felt that it was a good year, we wanted our Lion's Din to tell the story of a typical year of work and play at Lafayette Senior High with emphasis upon the qualities of character that mark the good student wherever he may be.

Believing as we do that students make the school and that a school building itself is only an inanimate mass of bricks and glass, we have painstakingly included some of you or your friends or your teachers in as many of our pictures of the school as possible.

Even our color page, a new feature this year, portraying a glimpse of the patio, shows students in a moment of relaxation and informal talk. Our duotone pictures of our school as seen inside the buildings would mean little if you were not in them.

We sincerely hope that in the '57 Lion's Din you find yourself portrayed in your various activities; we hope you find yourself laughing and dreaming, working and playing, and, if you do, we will feel that we have helped to capture some of the spirit and excitement of a typical year at Lafayette Senior High School.

Through These Doors You Entered . . . Your High and Now . . .

You're typical teens . . . making fun out of work . . . sharing interests . . . rooting for the team. You like jeans but you can be glamorous when the occasion demands it.

Yes, you're typical teens . . . go steady about five months . . . dress up . . . heels for her . . . tie for him . . . You know how to drive . . . hot rods . . . but the family car comes in handy on a date.

You snack . . . watch television . . . listen to the radio or "to the voice" while doing homework.

You're typical high school students . . . you go out for sports . . . dramatics . . . debate . . . work on the paper. You hold down a job . . . baby sit . . . work in stores . . . garages . . . run errands . . . You belong to a club or two . . . go to church on Sunday . . . You have little spare time, but you like it that way.

Your daily schedule is a familiar pattern of high school life . . . get up at 7:30 . . . maybe 8:00 . . . sometimes oversleep . . . ride the bus . . . go at break-neck speed to the cafeteria for lunch . . . drink cokes . . . munch candy bars and hot dogs . . . now and then you order a real feed . . . You enjoy school but hate to admit it . . . study some . . . three hours a night . . . no, a week . . . average "A" . . . well "C" . . . Anyway you make the grade . . . just . . . but you're satisfied because you are a teenager.

You're loyal to your friends . . . your school . . . your country. You can be depended on in a crisis . . . You talk big when you're scared on the inside . . . And you laugh loudest when you feel most like crying.

You're great . . . You're silly . . . You're sweet . . . You're a pain in the neck . . . but—you are you . . . typical teens—typical high school students.

And since you have all these qualities—and more . . . good . . . bad . . . ludicrous . . . pathetic or otherwise—since you are Lafayette Senior High School students—we affectionately dedicate the 1957 Lion's Din to you.

The sound of laughter from the halls . . . outside the open windows . . . the Alma Mater and excited shouts . . . "The team is leaving," or "Great dance tonight, mate" . . . but the fun . . . the frivolity . . . the careless talk and laughter is not for the staff . . . No, they sit humped over typewriters . . . over desks piled high with photographs . . . layouts . . . ink smudges . . . "Grab a coke and back to work . . . A deadline to meet." That's the staff:

Then the shouts and whoops of joy . . . copy going out . . . we did it again . . . After that . . . a quiet, empty room? Only for a few hours . . . Tomorrow the typewriters, the planning, the headaches and back aches will begin again.

Its like that for a year . . . until the last chorus is sung at graduation . . . No rest for the staff.

You think in our own way we did not have fun? We loved every minute . . . well . . . almost every minute of it!

Careful planning and preparation is a necessity for a successful yearbook.

Much work and no play could be a fitting motto for the Lion's Din Staff.

A job well done and a sigh of relief as Pauline ties the final yearbook copy shipment.

Administration and Faculty

Leadership ~ the Basic Quality Which

Is Essential for the Training of Youth

Superintendent, J. C. LANDRY

The role which was mine in the selection of your fine school site, the designing and construction of your magnificent school plant, and the naming of your splendid faculty, shall always remain a source of pride to me.

But, my dear students, while each of the above is of greatest importance to a school, there remains another factor which is primary in the life, the success and the character of any school—and that is the students.

As each of you play your part as a student so will the character and the success of your school be determined. That is always a challenge to meet. I think you are meeting that challenge.

With the Seniors in the lead, may God always give you the Graces to ever hold high its banner.

Sincerely yours,
J. C. Landry

Mr. Landry's administrative staff works for the betterment and improvement of schools throughout the parish. Pictured from left to right are: Miss Inez Neyland, superintendent of instruction; Mr. Landry; Mr. Charles Delana, assistant superintendent; George Armstrong, visiting teacher; Roy Broussard, superintendent of maintenance; Mr. Ray Miles, director of guidance; and Dr. Harley Smith, director of special education.

Shown below is the superintendent with a group of his office workers.

Principal, L. A. BERGER

This year's Lion's Din has been dedicated to all the students of Lafayette Senior High School. Congratulations . . . This is a most thoughtful act. During high school life students play the most important roles in academic accomplishments, athletics, clubs, and other organizations or activities. Friendships formed here will continue to grow all your lives. Thumbing through these pages in later years will help you recall the countless blessings you experienced here.

L. A. Berger

Assistant Principal, MR. GEORGE PORTER

MRS. DENA BREAU, who teaches tenth grade English, prepares a lesson while supervising a study hall in the cafeteria.

MRS. MATTIE BELLE, supervisor of English, conducts a lesson on fundamentals in the structure of paragraphs.

The English department's classes in literature and grammar offer a stimulating approach to the study of our language. In the study of literature one develops an appreciation of good books and writings. The study of grammar develops the power of self-expression, as well as preciseness and correctness in the use of language.

For graduation, three credits are required and four are encouraged for those planning to attend college. Not only does English serve as foundation for college but for life itself.

Language — Essential in the World Today

A greater understanding of our neighbors around the world can be obtained through the study of foreign language. Our foreign language department aids in this understanding by offering courses in the study of French and Spanish. These languages were selected because of the extent of their use and the value obtained by their use.

MRS. RUBY WORTMAN, supervisor of Spanish and world history, is pictured above entering her classroom.

Speech Courses Are Aimed at Usefulness and Beauty

MRS. NOVALYN ELLIS, supervisor of speech.

The aim of all speech courses is to make those who take it more effective when they talk whether in daily conversation, in the classroom, or in any public speaking situation.

Lafayette Senior High offers a general course in speech which may be followed by a course in a more specialized area such as debate, radio speaking or dramatics.

Directly below, Marilyn Montgomery, Celia Ann Guilbeau, Pauline Harding and Gerald Hernandez present the first drama quartette, The Day of the Stranger, ever to be presented in Louisiana State University's Workshop in drama, November 10, 1956.

MRS. VIRGINIA BERCEGEAY and Bobby Thomas seem to find something funny in the algebra class.

Vocational Preparation

The study of math prepares one for college as well as for a vocation. For high school graduation the requirement is one and a half credits. This year the math club was organized to the students of L.S.H.S.

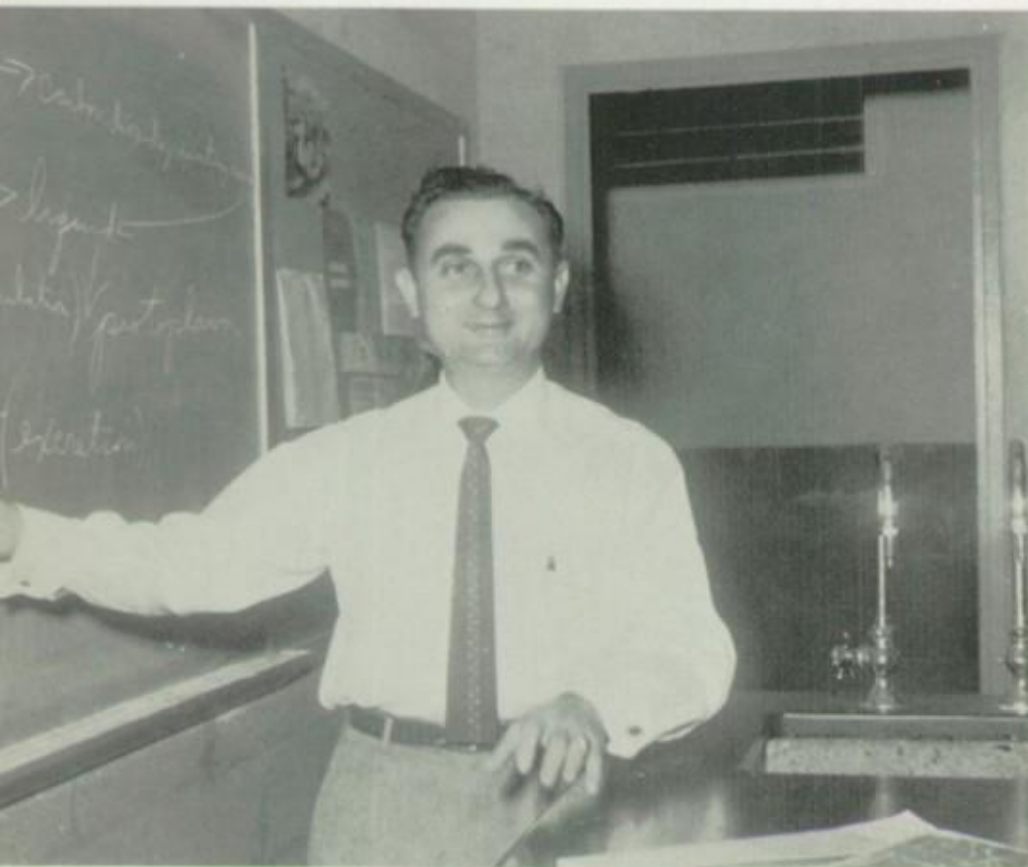

MR. RONALD GOINS, teacher of mathematics and science, is pictured at right examining some plants in his classroom.

MR. ELMO AUTHEMENT, supervising teacher of math and also teacher of American History, reviews tomorrow's assignment with his senior math class.

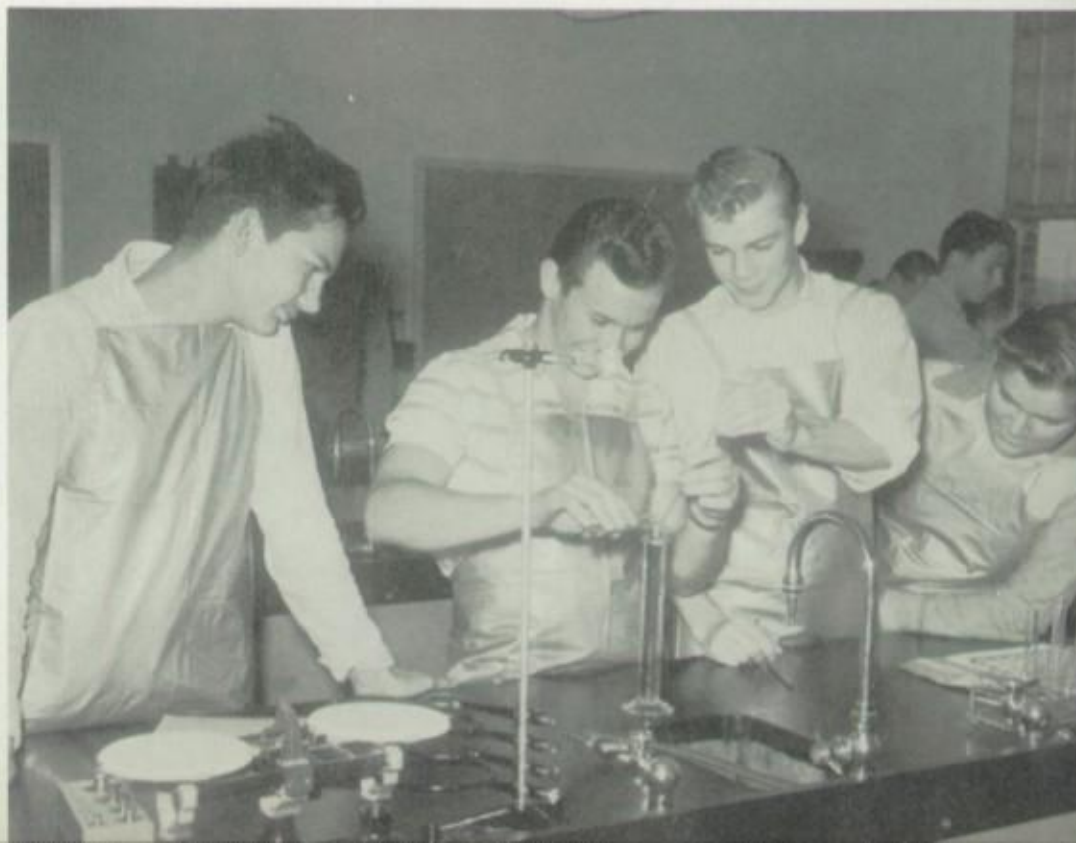

MR. ANTOINE HEBERT, teacher of chemistry, is pictured at right reviewing a new chemistry problem with his class.

Explaining the fundamental principles of basic biology is MR. JOSEPH GLORIOSO. He is supervising teacher of biology and chemistry.

The world around him is one of the greatest mysteries to mankind. To unlock and discover the answer to some of these mysteries we use the key of science. The science department of L.S.H.S.

Good Tunes . . . Good Times

At left, MR. HARRY GREIG, band director, conducts a rehearsal in preparation for the band's annual participation in the District Music Festival.

The Lafayette Senior High School Band is open to talented musicians. Directed by Mr. Harry Greig, the band participated in the halftime shows of Lafayette Senior High football games, and takes part in other affairs, such as Christmas and Mardi Gras parades, and area festivals.

This year a great honor was bestowed upon the band. It was the only band to get Sweepstakes in the District Music Festival. The band won a rating of superior in concert playing, marching, and sight reading.

Shown above is the drum section of the band, while working on a new arrangement of a jazz number. From left to right are James Bellot, Mike Huckably, Fred McCall and James Needam.

MISS DOROTHY BLAKELY, supervisor of American History, lectures to her class on the reconstruction period after the Civil War.

A better understanding of our democratic government of today, as well as the past, can be obtained through the social studies courses. These include the study of American History, World History and Civics.

Future Citizenship

As the youth of today will be the adults and leaders of tomorrow, these courses extend preparation and background for tomorrow's citizens. Two social studies credits are required for high school graduation.

Giving an assignment to her class is MRS. ALICE LOU DAWSON shown above. Mrs. Dawson is supervisor and teacher of Civics.

Planting New Ideas

For the students who are interested in farming, raising livestock, and general agriculture there is a department especially for their benefit. This department also serves as a trade school. Included in the agricultural courses are home projects of dairying, poultry, gardening and home beautification. A Club, the Future Farmers of America, has been organized to stimulate interest in agriculture.

MR. J. D. CONCIENNE, pictured above, lectures to his class on new ideas in livestock raising.

Below, Raymond Broussard demonstrates a new method for ant killing developed by the agriculture department.

Caring for the plants in the greenhouse are Presley Rogers, Bob Lee Rogers, Dale Mernerd, Hilton Richard and LeRoy Chassion.

Future Homemakers in Training

Students at Lafayette High are fortunate because they are offered experiences and opportunities in home-making which few schools surpass.

As well as learning to cook and sew, a girl can learn child care, good grooming, etiquette, meal planning and preparation, buying and budgeting. For Junior girls and boys a course in home and family living is also offered.

A spacious Home Ec department is available to Home Ec students and the Future Homemakers of America was organized for their benefit.

MISS HAZAL ALPHA, teacher of Home Economics and supervising teacher of cooking, looks over some test papers.

Getting the kitchen spic and span are Clare DeRousselle, Earline Landry and Dolores Wiltz.

Preparing tomorrow's lesson is Mrs. Louise Oeser, teacher of Home Economics and supervising teacher of sewing.

Skills for the Future

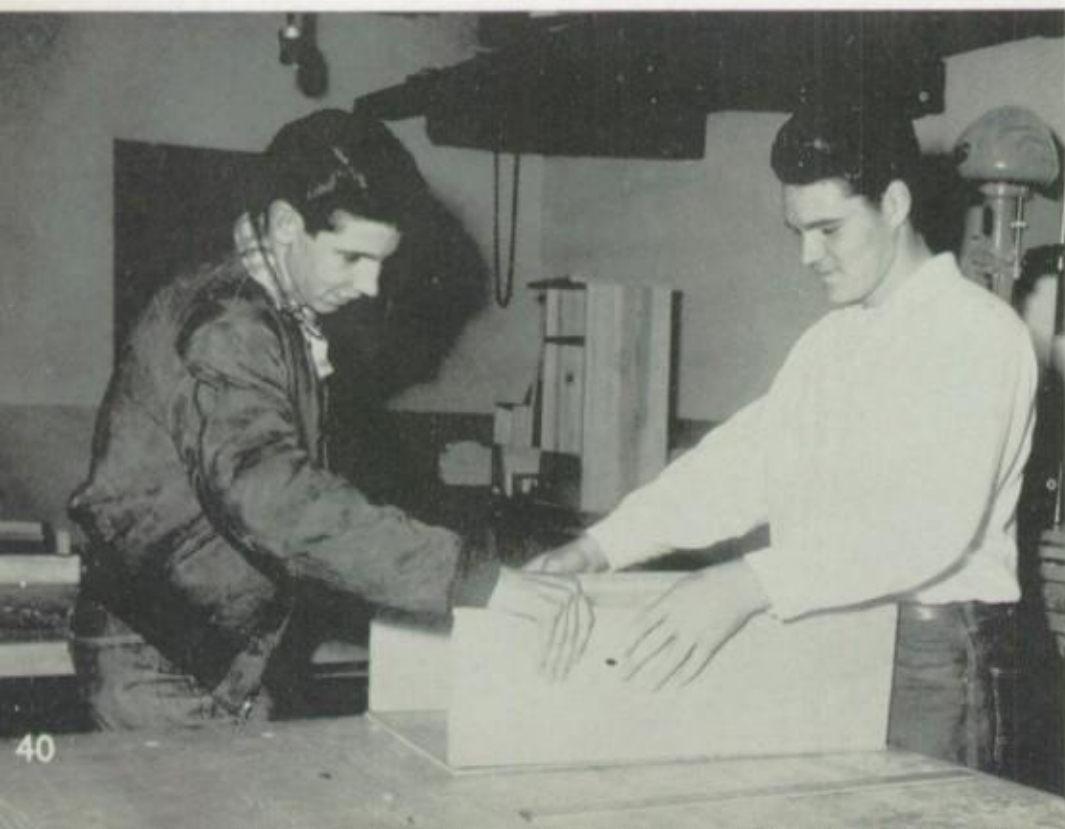

MR. VALEN RICHARD prepares to give instructions to his class on woodwork.

"Creating and learning" could well be the motto of the L.S.H.S. industrial arts department. The students themselves create projects in woodcraft and metal works while at the same time they learn a skill or trade. Excellent supplies and materials necessary for the course are provided by the department and safety is stressed throughout the work.

Working busily in the work shop are Billy LeBlanc and Veron Beadle practicing with the electric saw.

The Heart of the School

The library could easily be referred to as the "heart of the school," for it offers a world of material whether it be scientific research, reference material or an exciting fiction story. The library offers a quiet place for reading and studying. Adjoining it, to add to convenience of students and teachers alike, are conference and study rooms enclosed by glass. The library contains a vast amount of material on almost any subject.

Above, MISS LILLIAN GAUTHIER, Librarian, explains how to find the desired book by means of the card catalog.

At left is Donald Guilbeau assisting Miss Gauthier with the tedious job of pasting card envelopes on the new library books.

Library tables provide an excellent spot for these students to finish some last minute homework, while Macklyn Mouton selects a newly issued magazine.

Salesman and Student Alike

MRS. JOYCE HATCH, supervisor of D.E., watches as her class performs a sales demonstration.

Salesman and student alike is a fitting description for those pupils of Lafayette Senior High, who are enrolled in the Distributive Education course. A new line of study in the schools of today, D.E. enables the students to prepare for the future in community living as well as in the business world. These pupils attend regular classes in the morning. During the afternoon and on Saturdays they work in various retail and service stores in Lafayette.

Creating and Learning Artistically

MR. CLAUDE GUIDROZ, supervisor of the Lafayette High Art Department, prepares to discuss with his class the theory and method of abstract and impressionistic painting.

The L.S.H.S. art department offers many and varied courses in art. These include work in water colors, oils, charcoal, pastels, linoleum block printing, molding, ceramics and sculpturing of plaster, wood or any other desirable material. Through this study the students learn to appreciate art, and the school benefits from the services rendered by the department. Many pupils take art not because they are especially talented, but because art offers an opportunity for self expression.

Members of the Library Club are shown below preparing Christmas decorations for the school lobby. Seated are, from left to right: Jackie Wiltz, Paula Carmouche, Faye Vincent, Velma Venable, Wilda Gautreaux, Sandra Cormier, Norma Broussard and demonstrating Roberta Beaucaire. Standing: Macklyn Mouton, Jeanette Bernard, Frances Sargent, Patricia Hazelrigg, Deanna Balliet, Judy Lillis, Sadie Corley, Catherine Buckland, Judith Patin, Beato Rogers, Mary Ann Broussard.

The Library Club was formally organized in 1952, and is affiliated with the state organization called the Louisiana Teen-Age Librarians Association. The club is a service and professional group and club programs are designed to be both practical and inspirational.

Among the projects for the 1956-57 school year were decoration of the school lobby at Christmas, representation at the state convention of teen-age librarians by a delegation and the making of school pennants as a fund-raising project.

Claire DeRousselle and Shirley Landry are shown below reading to the following Library Club members. Seated from left to right are: Frances Kelly, Suzie Shroder, Barbara Stooksberry, Barbara Lions, Suzie Domingue, Sherry Brooks, Jean Josey, Shirley Webb, Janelle Taylor, Yvonne Touchet, Daisy Thibodeaux, Jeanne Louviere, Faye Fontenot, Pat Mendes, Kathleen Williams, Toni Thibodeaux, Susan Phillips, Ellen Poche, Gerry Landr LeBlanc, Patsy LeBlanc, and Pat Fiero.

S. J. Hemleben and Gerald Hernandez congratulate each other at the end of the season.

Resolved —

Flaming minds meet in a battle of wits. The debate is on! After a lapse of two years, debating was revived in Lafayette Senior High in 1956-57. The Debate Forum was organized, and the teams participated in many debate tournaments throughout the state.

Every debater has gained valuable experience and has become more aware of the pros and cons of current issues.

Debate teams work hard so that they can go on trips. Below the group boards the bus for the Natchitoches tournament—one of the five trips made this year.

At left: Barbara Drobish, Dianne Derbonne, Sandra Meaux, Dianne Dillenbeck, Phyllis Hester, Elizabeth Thibodeaux, and Meredith May.

Senior Girls

Mixed teams debate in boys' division.

Music plays an important part in the development of Lafayette Senior High boys and girls.

For the second consecutive year the band has won the Sweepstakes Award at the Music Festival at S.L.I., and has gained a state-wide reputation for unexcelled excellence in the field of music.

Mr. Harry Greig, band director, is to be complimented on the character, cooperation and excellence he had commanded of this fine group of students.

The Glamor and Charm of the drum major and the majorettes add to the festivities during the year. They are from left Hazel Latiolias, Hal Gilder, and Margaret Wallace.

All the World's a Stage

The stage is set . . . the houselights are dimmed . . . the dramatic club is off to a dynamic start on a super performance!

The club began the year with the production of A Touch of Fancy, a one-act play. This was followed by another one-act play, Antic Spring and a hilarious three-act comedy Time Out for Ginger.

Not only active in proscenium theatre, the group has experimented with drama quartettes, and mono-dramas. The first high school in the state to specialize in the art of the drama quartette, the Lafayette Senior High group won recognition at home and over the state. After their initial production at the Louisiana State University Drama Workshop in November, the group was invited to present their quartette at the Theatre Festival in Northwestern State College in Natchitoches and for various social clubs in Lafayette.

In Time Out For Ginger, John deBoisblanc lays down the law to Pauline Harding, Gerald Hernandez and Darrel Wright.

Carol Dorman presents a mono-drama for a school program.

Gregory Long (Eddy) asks Joan (Marilyn Montgomery) for a date in Time Out For Ginger.

*Learning to do,
Doing to learn,
Earning to live,
Living to serve.*

The Lafayette Chapter of Future Farmers of America was organized in January, 1935. The primary objectives of the club are to interest and encourage young men in a career in agriculture, to contribute to an increased pride in the farm, home and its surroundings and to develop citizenship and leadership of its members.

Some of the projects of the F.F.A. members during the year were, growing vegetable plants for members and patrons of the community, a joint radio program with members of the Choral Department, a campaign to control fire ants around the school and participation in the annual educational field trip sponsored by the Parish.

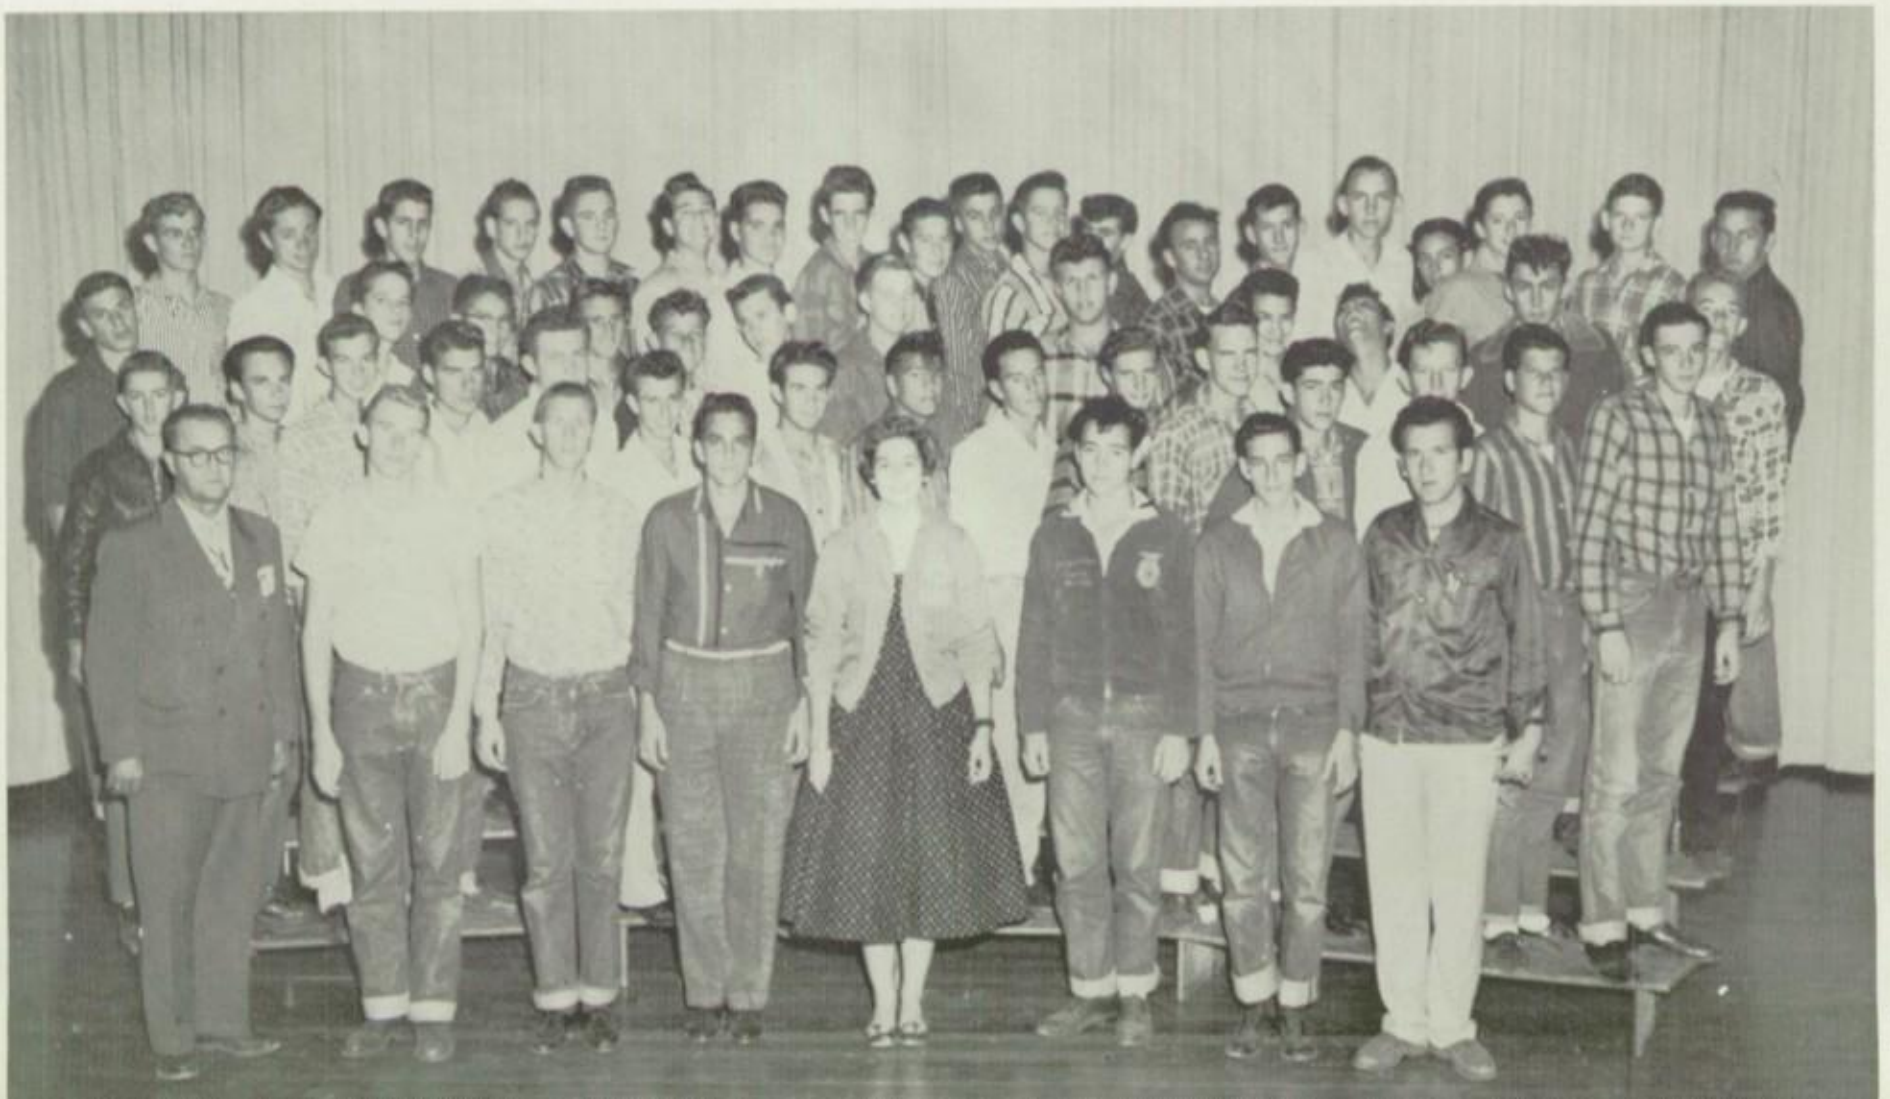

F.F.A. members also entered many and varied agricultural contests throughout the year.

Pictured above are members of the F.F.A. Club carrying out their campaign to control fire ants around the school.

New Horizons . . .

High school students of today are the homemakers of tomorrow, and the future homes of America are in the hands of its youth.

The Lafayette Chapter of Future Homemakers of America strives to promote a growing appreciation of the joys and satisfactions of homemaking, emphasize the importance of worthy home membership and to encourage democracy in home and community life.

The Club has been very active during the past year. A delegation from L.S.H.S. attended the State Convention in Alexandria in the Fall, participated in the Junior Style Show, took an active part in the District Meeting here in Lafayette and held their annual F.H.A. banquet honoring members of the club and guests.

Altha Lee Kennedy, president of the Future Homemakers of America, presides over the banquet.

Santa's Christmas Dolls, L.S.H.S. Sweethearts in a moment of expectation, await the announcement of this year's Miss Merry Christmas.

As November comes to a close, tension and excitement mount as each class, club, and organization prepares to select its candidate for Miss Merry Christmas. "Who will it be?" is the big question ringing through the corridors during these days of holly and mistletoe.

One club announces its sweetheart—then another and another, until all the candidates have been chosen and the court is complete.

The pictures of the sweethearts are posted in the lobby. Students crowd around trying to get a glimpse of the girls who will vie for the crown.

A few days before the big night, students in each home room class vote by secret ballot for the girl of their choice.

The climax comes the night of the Miss Merry Christmas Dance. The votes are counted, and last minute preparations are made. Backstage, the girls gossip among themselves in eager expectation. As the sweethearts are presented, murmurs of "Ohs" and "Ahs" sweep the audience. Then the announcer's voice, filled with excitement, comes over the loud speaker: "And now, we are happy to present Miss Merry Christmas of 1957—Miss Molly Le Blanc.

Each girl is the belle of the ball as the court dance begins.

Honor Students

As the end of the school year draws near, the faculty selects two outstanding students from the fifteen fields of study offered in Lafayette Senior High.

But awards and honors do not stop with classroom work, for Lafayette Senior High students distinguish themselves in extracurricular activities as well.

All awards are indicative of good character, initiative, and determination to succeed.

We are happy to present the 1956-57 outstanding and honor students on the pages that follow.

*Queen Melody of the 1957 Carnival Ball
Lafayette Senior High.*

introduces a Story of the Highlights of an Active Year at Lafayette Senior High alumni and students gathered on the evening of October 26 for the 1956 Football Homecoming. After a gay and noisy parade down Jefferson Street, the crowd filled the stands at Clark Field for the game with New Iberia High's "Yellow Jackets." The Lions fought hard, and came out the winners. The Seniors, overwhelmed, went out on the field and led cheers along with the Cheerleaders. The crowd carried its spirit to the Victory Dance afterwards, where Miss Paula Mackey was crowned Football Homecoming Queen for 1956.

A Victorious Football Homecoming

Captain Phil Nugent, a star quarterback, crowns Paula Mackey as Football Homecoming Queen for 1956. Also shown are First Maid Pauline Lassere and her escort, Gerald Hernandez; and Second Maid Jill Mathis and her escort, R. J. Hollier.

Right, the F.H.A. float, which won the "Best-Decorated Float" prize, depicts a witch scene with an effigy of a New Iberia football player.

Lower left, the Lion's Din staff won the "Best-Decorated Car" prize for their work on Mrs. Billie Cappel's car.

Queen Sally gets crown

This year for the first time, the Senior Class sponsored a Basketball Homecoming. The candidates were voted upon by the basketball team, and the results were withheld until the night of the game. After the introduction of the candidates, the name of the queen was announced.

Miss Merry Christmas

The highlight of the Holiday Season is the Miss Merry Christmas Dance, sponsored annually by the Lion's Din. On December 18, the 1956 Miss Merry Christmas Dance was held in the Junior High Gym, which was decorated in a "Toyland" theme. After the introduction of the candidates, Lion's Din sweetheart Sandra Hayes, as Mistress of Ceremonies, announced to a tense audience that Molly LeBlanc had been elected Miss Merry Christmas of 1956. Molly was so overcome by the surprise that she turned to hug her escort, Wayne Smotherman. (Picture at left.) She and Wayne were crowned by Sandra, and then were presented with a gift by the 1955 couple, Toni Thibodeaux and Pat Owens. (Picture above.)

Carnival

King Leo XXII
CHARLES L. SAUNDERS

On February 28, 1957, the Royal Order of the House of Leo celebrated its twenty-second year of existence with the annual Carnival Ball. The Ball was held in Isenberg Hall under the title of "A Pretty Girl Is Like A Melody." As each Maid was introduced, Harry Greig and his Orchestra played her favorite tune.

The Maids and Dukes were nominated and voted upon at a Senior Class assembly. Sandra Antoinette Hayes was named Queen Melody, and Charles L. Saunders was selected King Leo XXII. First Maid and Duke were Kathleen Thibodeaux and Donald Higginbotham; Second Maid and Duke, Patricia Owens and Kenneth Smotherman. This year, an official crest designed by Mr. Cecil Raspberry was adopted for the House of Leo, and it is to be used at all future balls.
